

SECURITY INDUSTRY CONFIDENCE HIGH, KEEPING AN EYE ON DELTA

Despite an uncertain environment related to the recent resurgence of Covid-19, security leaders are bullish on the state of the industry, according to the results of a new report.

SIA's bimonthly market confidence report for August and September found confidence in current market conditions remained high after experiencing dips in the late winter and early spring months. In the August/September report, 86 percent of respondents to SIA's survey said they felt business conditions were "good" or "excellent," 42 percent reported increases in market spending...
